* As provided in Government Code §6270.5 (e) the public interest served by not disclosing the vendor and specific product name in these sections clearly outweighs the public interest served by disclosure of the record. The public does not benefit by knowing the vendor name and exact product. This information could be used to attempt to exploit the system; therefore, only a system name, brief title, or an identifier of the system is listed. AlamedaCTC also relies upon Government Code §6254.19 to exempt the disclosure of records that would reveal vulnerabilities to, or otherwise increase the potential for an attack on, an information technology system of a public agency.
